EPITAPH.

Here lyes embalmed in careful Parents Tears,
A Virgin Branch, cropt in its tender Years:
Reader, as in a Glaſs, thou perfectly may'ſt ſee,
How all things here below vain and uncertain be.
Dear Virgin Child, Farewel! thy Mother's Tears
Cannot advance thy Memory (who wears
A Crown above the Stars) yet I muſt mourn,
And ſhew the World mine Offerings at thy Urn.
'Tis not (Dear Child!) a Stone can deck your Herſe,
Or can your Worth lodge in a narrow Verſe.
No, no, bleſt Virgin! this engraven Breath
Is not to ſpeak your Life, but weep your Death.
This Herſe is only layed by th' careful Truſt
Of a ſad Mother, in Honour of your Duſt.

EPITAPH.

Reader, pay thy Tribute here,
A Tear, a Roſe, and then a Tear.
Grief may make thee Marble too;
Yet weep on, as Marbles do.
Gently let the Duſt be ſpread
O'er a gentle Virgin's Head:
Preſs'd by no rude Paſſer by,
Nothing but a Mother's Eye.

Sacred

Sacred Tomb, with whom we truſt,
Precious Piles of lovely Duſt;
Keep them ſafely, ſacred Tomb,
'Till a Mother ask for Room.

WHO DEPARTED THIS LIFE JUNE 22d. 1697.
IN THE 59th YEAR OF HIS AGE:
IN HOPES OF A BLESSED AND GLORIOUS
RESURRECTION UNTO ETERNAL LIFE.

Though dead I lye, I ſpeak to you that live,
Your Heart, your All, beſure to God you give:
At Death the Day of Grace will fully end;
In Grief for Bad, in Good Works your Time ſpend.
Earth is Vanity; Chriſt's Worth, and of his Croſs,
The Virtue know, and Greatneſs of Soul's Loſs.
Immortal Souls to benefit and ſave,
I have thus made a Pulpit of my Grave.

I take my Leave of you, my Parents dear.
Low here I lye, in this ſoft Bed of Duſt,
Waiting the Reſurrection of the Juſt.

I, Phœnix like, have my firſt Riſing known,
And on the Wings of Love am upward flown:
My Heavenly Part's aſcended up on high,
Whilſt on Earth my Earthly Part doth ····
'Till it ſhall riſe again in Glory bleſt,
With all the Saints, in their eternal Reſt.
My Parents dear, my Time was ſhort, you ſee:
So live and dye, that you may reſt with me.

He was poor Widows Advocate,
And many Pounds for them he gate,
Which he them gave, without fail:
His Loſs therefore they much bewail.

On the Plank of an Altar-Monument of Free-ſtone, at the Weſt, was the following Inſcription engraven, made by Mr. Ed. Bagshaw beforementioned; but now, by the Injury of the Weather, worn out.

Vavasor Powell, a ſucceſsful Teacher of the paſt, A ſincere Witneſs of the preſent, and an uſeful Example to the future, Age, lies here interr'd, who in the Defection of ſo many, obtained Mercy to be found Faithful; for which being called to ſeveral Priſons, he was there tried, and would not accept Deliverance, expecting a better Reſurrection. In hope of which, he finiſhed this Life, & Teſtimony together, in the 11th Year of his Impriſonment, and in the 53d Year of his Age, Octob. 27. An. 1671.

In vain Oppreſſors do themſelves perplex,
To find out Arts how they the Saints may vex:
Death ſpoils their Plots, and ſets the Oppreſſed free;
Thus Vavasor obtained true Liberty.
Chriſt him releaſed, and now he's joyned among
The martyred Souls, with whom he cries, How long.

of Cripplegate Pariſh, who departed this Life Nov. 12. 1713.
Aged 38.

Lo here ſhe lyes interr'd, who humbly gave
Her Soul to God, her Body to the Grave.
Throughout her Paſſage to a better Life,
She prov'd a pious, virtuous, loving Wife.
She dy'd to live, and humbly liv'd to dye;
So God remov'd her to compleat her Joy:
And her ſurviving Spouſe in Chriſt doth truſt,
To mix his Aſhes with her ſacred Duſt.
